ABOUT TONIGHT'S SHOW

Sandcastles, deckchairs, donkey-rides, fish-and-chips, wheelks and cockles, Any More for the "Skylark"? formidable landladies flanked by aspidistras, peppermint-rock-with-the-name-right-through, illuminations, What The Butler Saw, saucy postcards - where else would you find all these things together but at the English seaside? Cheap at the price, too. In the 'twenties and 'thirties, between the two world wars, your hard-earned, soup-plate-sized pennies were really worth something: Southend, for example, operated with the slogan "If we'd had another sixpence we could have stayed another day". And then the pier, that peculiarly British institution - a world of its own, suspended between sea and sky, with perhaps an electric railway taking you to the fairyland of pierrot shows and amusements at its far end.

Our Boys and Girls have brought the sea to you in Basle, and lay it, in a manner of speaking, at your feet.
Come On In - It's Lovely!

"There's sand in the porridge and sand in the bed,
And if this is pleasure, we'd rather be dead."
(Noel Coward, "The English Lido")

The above quotation suggests that the French are right when they say the English take their pleasures sadly - even at the seaside. But at least the Semicircle, the Flowing Bowl and (we like to think) the English Institute take a brighter view of things British. So if it's tuition or a translation you need, come to us and you'll be in the swim.

Travelling to Britain? Travelling in Britain? Let Sealink and British Rail show you the way

Take your car

Drive to Britain in your car. Sealink car ferries make it easy with a choice of 10 convenient routes and up to 100 sailings a day at peaks. Plus 3 other routes to take you on to Ireland. Sealink's modern drive-on... drive-off ships make the sea crossing an enjoyable start to your holiday and offer relaxation to the business traveller. Reservations are recommended and are essential in summer.

Get a Britrail Pass

A Britrail Pass gives you unlimited travel on British Rail – including Inter-City trains – for 8, 15, 22 days or one month for one single economical payment. Prices start at Fr. 145. But you must buy your Britrail Pass before you leave Switzerland – they are not sold in England. There is also a Britrail Seapass which includes a reduced price sea crossing

Go by train

Travel by train to Britain is made easy by direct train-ship-train connections via the Sealink ports of Calais, Dunkerque, Oostende and Hook van Holland. They provide convenient links between Switzerland and all the major cities of Britain.
